TWO VICTORIES SCORED, BELIEF

I. C. C. Arranges Confab Between Duff, K. C. S.

PRECEDENT IN SIGHT

Action Indicates Releasing Of Rail Monopoly

Decision favorable to Port Arthur in both the Duff line and the old K. C. S. cases were forecast in Washington today, when members of the Interstate Commerce commission practically admitted the necessity of additional common carrier facilities for this city.

Discuss Joint Agreement

Special communication to The News from representatives of Port Arthur attending the hearing being held this week in Washington announced that the commerce commission is arranging a conference between Col. R. C. Duff of Houston and officials of the Kansas City Southern, looking towards having the Kansas City Southern permit Col. Duff to use their lines from Beaumont south as a switching district, and the water facilities of the Port Arthur Canal and Dock company as well.

Logically, such a permit would throw open the K. C. S. docks to all lines, and would mean a signal victory for Port Arthur in both the dock case and the Duff case.

Victory Either Way

Should the Kansas City Southern refuse to agree to the commissioners' plan, information received by The News today indicates, Port Arthur leaders secured a favorable report on Col. Duff's application for extension of the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine from Livingston, Texas, to Port Arthur, and this means that, either way the conference ends, Port Arthur for once will win her cases.

The dock case has been pending for months. It was reopened here last year, and heard by the commission.

BURGLAR FLASH AWAKENS HER

Mrs. Cortell Scares Thief Who Gets $75

Burglars entering the home of Captain Joe Cortell, 3001 Procter street about midnight, escaped with $75.50 in cash and a bunch of keys, according to report made to the police.

Mrs. Cortell was awakened by the light from a flash lamp in the room on the sleeping porch and gave the alarm, but the thief grabbed what loot was immediately available and fled through the front door.

Investigation showed that the prowler had gained entrance by turning the knob of the front door, left unlocked when the family retired.

The police were immediately notified and Night Shortcill Officer Wistner was detailed to the scene.

The money and keys were taken from Captain Cortell's trouser pockets and from Mrs. Cortell's purse which was lying on the dresser in the sleeping room.

The prowler left foot tracks about the house which lead to the belief that he made a careful investigation of the premises through the windows before entering.

FORBES' TRIAL GETS STARTED

Vet Bureau Head Charged With Fraud

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—The contracting firm of Thompson and Black "bought and paid for its government contracts," for erection of veterans hospitals, Assistant Attorney General John W. Crim charged today in his opening statement to the federal jury trying Col. Charles R. Forbes, former veterans bureau director, and John W. Thompson, for defrauding the government.

Crim said that he expects to prove in the course of the trial that Forbes and Elias Mortimer, "intimate friend, accomplice and co-conspirator of Forbes and paid informant of the government," had expected to divert to themselves $1,000,000 of the $17,000,000 appropriated for erection of the hospitals.

Port Arthur Goes Over Top In Red Cross Annual Drive

Goal of $18,000 Is Passed With $1210 To Spare In The Snappiest Campaign Ever Put On Here

Port Arthur went over the top in its 1924 Red Cross roll call.

Through the efforts of the drive committee and the co-operation of the citizens, the $18,000 goal was exceeded by $1,210.

"The most successful drive yet," said General Chairman William Slater, "Port Arthur went over in fine shape and we appreciate the assistance given us and the co-operation we received from many sources."

Sets New Record

The 1924 drive, not only required less time than any of the previous efforts, but set a new record for the city by the amount over subscribed, the grand total to noon today being $19,210.

The central committee has not completed its labors in compiling the returns but Chairman Slater said this morning that the total arrived at was official and that Friday's clerical force would have the final details of the report completed.

Many business houses responded to the call by subscribing 100 per cent among their employees, office managers and others relieving the workers by marshaling their forces to respond to the appeal as a whole.

The citizens of the city at large subscribed a total of $7,450. This includes stores, office and business places in the city proper and the amount collected in the house to house canvass.

City Gave $3,000

The Texas Company employees at the refinery, subscribed $1,700, while those employed at the Island and terminal departments, added another $800.

In the grand total is the $3,000 set aside by taxation as the city's municipal contribution and $3,000 which is this year's appropriation from the county and school funds.

The Gulf Refining company employees who paid their subscriptions at the works, added another $3,200. The subscriptions made by refinery workers in the city is not reflected in the amounts given by them at the works. Many from both refineries subscribed from their residences or other out-of-town points.

The collections were, unusually heavy following the paydays of Thursday and Saturday of last week.

HOWELL FACES ARSON CHARGE

60th Grand Jury Bills Former Officer

HELD IN JAIL

But Officers Say They Don't Know It

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, November 26.—Lee Howell, former deputy constable, was indicted for arson by the grand jury of the 60th district court here Tuesday. The charge against Howell is in connection with the burning of a house located at 703 Bonham street and owned by C. A. Toliver. The house was occupied at the time by Miss Minnie Dillard and one occupant, Mrs. Bessie Ramage, lost her life in the time.

Well Known in Port Arthur

Howell, well known in Port Arthur, was first brought in the limelight here in connection with information he obtained against the Hotel Beaumont for alleged liquor violations. He worked there as a bell-boy and then turned over all information he had to federal officers with the result that several charges were preferred against employees of the hotel.

Serving as a deputy constable, Howell was one of several officers to be indicted by the grand jury on a charge of robbery by firearms. A heavy bond was set in the case but he finally was released from the county jail.

Howell then left Beaumont and went to Jasper. Several weeks ago he was arrested by state rangers on a charge of murder following raids there in liquor cases. He was brought back to the grand jury yesterday by Sheriff Rogers Bishop of Jasper.

Held on Pro Charge

Howell was arrested here about two months ago by Deputy Sheriffs Homer French and Artie Pollock. Howell came down from Jasper and on the first night he was here, he was arrested by Pollock and French on a charge of transporting a still. The still was one of the largest and finest ever to be taken and is now in the custody of Sheriff Tom Garner. Howell was subsequently released from the county jail on bond.

Mystery of Howell's whereabouts today lent speculation to the case. Deputy Sheriff Carl Kennedy declared today that if Lee Howell was in the county jail here, he knew nothing of it. Jailer E. E. King also made the same remark. Attorney Archie Shaw, however, declared that he talked with Lee Howell in jail Tuesday morning.

Jury Probes Stokes Case

The grand jury returned 16 other indictments in addition to the one against Howell. They are working again today and there is a probability that other indictments may be returned on Friday, when they adjourn for the term.

Of prime importance is the investigation of the shooting of R. C. Stokes, who was shot through a window recently at the home of Deputy Sheriff Artie Pollock. Opinion of officers is that the assassin intended the fatal shot for Artie Pollock. Stokes died a few days after the shooting at a local hospital.

Surviving besides the widow and son are a foster-daughter, Miss Bessie Timmins of Fort Worth; four grandchildren, Dorothy, Nina, Foster and Mollie Timmins; and three sisters, Mrs. O. L. Doty, of Cleveland, Mrs. Charles Johnson, of Chicago, and Mrs. George Wells, of Gallup, New Mexico.

Furnace Death Quiz Waits On Tests

COLUMBUS, Nov. 26.—John R. King, county prosecutor, in charge of investigating the death of Mrs. Addie Sheatsley today predicted that he will be able to accomplish nothing further toward a solution of the baffling furnace mystery until scientists examining Mrs. Sheatsley's organs and bloodstains found at the personage, have completed their tests and drawn their conclusions.

The prosecutor issued a formal statement declaring that until the scientists report the investigation is virtually at a standstill.

Flogging Indictment Is Held Defective

AUSTIN, Nov. 26.—The indictment under which John Short was convicted in Randall county of being a member of a flogging party was filed $1,000 was held to be defective by the court of criminal appeals and judgment was reversed and the case remanded for another trial. The victim of the alleged floggers was J. M. Denny, but his name appeared as "J. B. Denny" in the indictment. The higher court held that this constituted a fatal variance.

Mother Steals Doll for Baby Then Leaps From Window

Store Manager Steps Into Role of Santa Claus When Woman Breaks Leg In Making Escape

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 26.—Little Eleanor Heslin, 3, had her faith restored in Santa Claus today. When Eleanor's mother overheard an ultra sophisticated neighbor child tell her little daughter that Santa Claus was "just your mom and pop," she resolved to demonstrate that old Santa Claus was a reality. But things were breaking tough for the Heslins and Mrs. Heslin decided that if Eleanor got a doll or any other Christmas presents they would have to be stolen.

So mingling with the crowds of more fortunate shoppers, Mrs. Heslin "stuffed" a baby doll. She was just leaving the toy department when a clerk called to her.

Seized with fright, Mrs. Heslin ran to a rear window and leaped out. Her left leg was broken in two places by the fall from the second floor, but the baby doll was not scratched.

Then the manager of the store stepped into the role of Santa Claus. After sending Mrs. Heslin to the hospital, Ludwig, who was manager of the store, drove over to the Heslin home and presented the doll to little Eleanor.

"Oh, I bet you're Santa," said Eleanor, her eyes filling with tears at the sight of the baby doll.

"You're blamed right I'm Santa," said Ludwig.

Despite Its Failure at Beaumont, Labor Finds Merit in Manager Plan

In my judgment the managerial form of government is far superior to the aldermanic. At least the same has proven so in our city. More results have been accomplished in the last four years under the manager form than have been accomplished in the last ten years under the aldermanic form—C. A. Weber, secretary Beaumont Trades and Labor Assembly.

A. R. TIMMINS PASSES AWAY

Former Port Arthur Oil Man Dies In Ft. Smith

Word of the death of A. R. Timmins, 80, pioneer Port Arthurian and a veteran in the oil business, at Fort Smith, Ark., where he has made his home since leaving Port Arthur a number of years ago, was received by friends in this city today.

Funeral services for Timmins were conducted at Fort Smith Sunday, with Rev. Harry R. Asenberry, who was pastor of the First M. E. church, in Port Arthur, when Timmins made his home in this city, officiating.

The body was sent to Cleveland, Ohio, for burial. It was accompanied by Cleveland by the widow and the son, F. A. Timmins, of 701 Stillwell boulevard, Port Arthur.

As early as 1893 Timmins and his brother were owners and managers of one of the largest oil refineries in the beginning of the oil industry, and at the outset of his career, Timmins was a close friend to John D. Rockefeller. He was widely known throughout the southwest, and is remembered by many of the older residents of Port Arthur.

In the influenza epidemic five years ago, Timmins' health was impaired, and several weeks ago he became seriously ill. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Timmins were summoned from their Port Arthur home to his bedside about a week before the end came.

Surviving besides the widow and son are a foster-daughter, Miss Bessie Timmins of Fort Worth; four grandchildren, Dorothy, Nina, Foster and Mollie Timmins; and three sisters, Mrs. O. L. Doty, of Cleveland, Mrs. Charles Johnson, of Chicago, and Mrs. George Wells, of Gallup, New Mexico.

Manager Plan Must Be Voted On Separately

ADVANCE ELECTION DATE

Prior Date Not In Accord With Law

No questions other than whether or not a commission shall be chosen to frame a new charter, and who the commission shall be, can be placed on the ballot for the election through the ordinance authorized Tuesday by city commissioners.

The ballot which will be authorized by the ordinance which city commissioners voted for Tuesday, cannot have either printed or written upon it the question of whether or not the voters of Port Arthur are in favor of or against the city manager form of government, nor can it contain any expression as to what the people think of the present form of government.

Complete Draft Friday

Vernor J. Wistner, city attorney authorized yesterday by vote of the commissioners to draft an ordinance calling a charter commission election, made these statements to a representative of The News in his office this morning. The ordinance calling the election, he said, is being prepared at the present time, but probably will not be completed before Friday morning. If it is completed at that time, the measure will be presented to the commission Friday for action.

The date of the election, Attorney Wistner said, is fixed by law, and must be at least 30 days after passage of the ordinance calling the election. Commissioners yesterday fixed the date of the election as Saturday, December 27, but today rescinded their action, and named the election date as Saturday, January 3, 1925, since passage of the ordinance on Friday would not grant 30 days of time between Friday, November 28, and December 27. The date of the election must be contained in the ordinance Attorney Wistner is drafting, he said today.

Charter Board Limited to 15

"The ordinance must be passed by the city commissioners at least 30 days prior to date of the election," Wistner remarked, "and in the ordinance the question of 'shall a commission be chosen to frame a new charter' must be contained."

"The ordinance must further provide for the election of not more than 15 persons to serve as charter commissioners."

After the votes have been canvassed, Wistner continued, if a majority of the votes cast are found to be in favor of a charter commission, the 15 persons receiving the highest votes will constitute the commission.

"Any person desiring to announce his or her candidacy for the charter commission must give their names to the city clerk not less than 10 days prior to the election," Wistner went on, asserting that "there is no limit to the number of persons entering the race, and no candidate can announce either what party he represents, or what political alignment he sides with."

Procedure in Charter Revise

After the charter commission has been elected, if one is elected, then it becomes their duty to frame a new charter. The charter commission then sets the date of the election on the charter they have drafted, and they may or may not draft a charter about the lines of either a city manager plan or a commission plan of government, according to the letter of the law, Attorney Wistner pointed out.

"They are not, and cannot be instructed by the voters in the election authorized by the ordinance being prepared now which know of charter to the voters."

BUSINESS HALTS TURKEY DAY

Special Services Are To Be Held Here

Secretary Felix Broussard of the Retail Merchants organization stated this morning that the body was recommending the closing of all places of business in the city Thanksgiving day.

Thanksgiving day, according to Broussard, is one of the several holidays which the organization agreed to observe by closing at a meeting held some months ago.

The banks, city hall and government offices will observe the holiday as usual. The Port Arthur post office will observe holiday hours.

There will be no deliveries made by carrier but the windows with the exception of the money order division, will be open for business from 10:30 to 11:30 during the morning.

The annual observance of Port Arthur churches on Thanksgiving Day comprises a union service in St. St. George's Episcopal church, Fifth street and Stillwell boulevard, Thursday at 8 a. m.; a service in St. John's Lutheran church, meeting in the Port Arthur college auditorium, at 10 a. m.; services at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1211 Fifth street, at 11 a. m.; and in Trinity Lutheran church, St. Augustine and Fifth street, at 10 a. m.

Arrangements for the union services in St. George's church were made by the members of the Port Arthur Ministerial alliance. Special music will be given by the choir, under the direction of Mrs. M. J. Panton, with Mrs. F. J. Twomey, organist, and includes William Lester's anthem, "How Excellent Thy Name" for the offertory, and a "Te Deum" by Whelphys. The service is planned to last exactly one hour.

Ministers to participate include Rev. C. E. Weidner, pastor of the First Congregational church, who will preach the sermon; Rev. C. W. Rodgers, pastor of the First M. E. church; Rev. T. A. Davis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. R. B. Yelderman, pastor of the First Christian church, and Rev. John Ridout, Jr., pastor of St. George's Episcopal church.

The offering at the union service will be turned over to the Day Nursery.

COURT RULES AX HANDLE NOT WEAPON

AUSTIN, Nov. 26.—Because the trial judge failed to allow the jury to consider the question as to whether an ax-handle is a deadly weapon, the court of criminal appeals reversed and remanded the case of Arvie Neal, convicted in San Augustine county of murder of Jim Hines and sentenced to 7 years. The higher court said that it has been held in many cases that an ax handle is not a deadly weapon.

Asks $5060 for Indignity Alleged

Special to The News. BEAUMONT, Nov. 26.—Alleging that furs of little value were taken from him, but that he was arrested, greatly humiliated and later taken to the Port Arthur jail on a theft charge, Stevens George of Port Arthur is asking for $5060 from W. P. H. McFadden. First testimony in the case was taken in the 60th court this morning. George alleges that he bought the furs from another party, but that McFadden and H. B. Morse stopped him, accused him of stealing the furs and that he was later arrested. The amount asked for includes $60 for the furs and $5000 exemplary damages.

Nolan, who the opinion handed down by the county court seemed to be liquor, admitted that he had undertaken to make liquor, but failed. One witness testified that "liquor was like alcohol, but it didn't intoxicate," and another witness said the liquor tasted like kerosene oil.

CLUB ELECTS SCOUT LEADER

Gladstone Derrick Named By Civitans

Rallying around the Boy scout banner today, Civitans resumed their responsibilities of sponsoring Troop 4, and elected their new Scoutmaster, Gladstone Derrick, gymnasium instructor at Franklin school, to honorary membership in the club at the luncheon at the Plaza hotel.

Edgar Irvine, member of the club, will be assistant Scoutmaster, and an active troop committee will be appointed. A special party for the Boy scouts of Troop 4 was voted for the first meeting in January, when the scouts will put on a program.

The troops sponsored by the Civitans has 18 scouts enrolled, and a fund in the treasury amounts to $30. Henry Britt, secretary, reported.

R. A. Collins, principal of the Franklin school and member of the Civitan club, secured Derrick to serve as Scoutmaster.

Bill Newman, chairman of the entertainment committee, called on Edgar Irvine and Howard Brooks for impromptu speeches, and got Wright Chenault and John Bryan into an argument by way of entertainment. Bill Williams, president of the club urged Civitans to bring out more members at the luncheon meetings, and assigned lists for next week's meeting.

THANKSGIVING

We need more than ever the ability to find contentment. Contentment is peculiarly a condition of home life, and it is therefore, through the family dinner that Thanksgiving can so aptly be expressed. In the savory steam from the turkey, in the tart appetizement of the cranberry, and in the reverie of the hour afterward, let us contemplate the real pigment of happiness. Let us, in short, bow our heads to the triumph of Home, where all happiness must begin and endure—Home—the inspiration of Plymouth Rock.

The Spirit of Thanksgiving

The spirit of Thanksgiving is prevalent among all classes. Once more our thoughts turn to those forefathers who made possible these grand old United States. It is only proper then that we offer thanks to our large following of satisfied customers. They have made possible the growth and success of our business.

Our honest endeavor in the future will be to surpass, if possible, the quality of work that has been responsible for our growth in the past.

In order that our employees may fully take advantage of the celebration, our plant will be closed down Thanksgiving Day.

TYLER'S TAX RATE IS $1.76

Tax Committee Questions Reagan's Figures

The tax investigation committee of the City Manager club today issued a second statement in reply to those made by J. M. Reagan, president of the People's Government league, in a meeting of the city hall Monday night in which Reagan is quoted as having compared the rate of Tyler, Texas, under the city manager plan, with the Port Arthur tax rate.

"Our investigation discloses that Reagan made the error of including a 69 cent school tax when he said that Tyler, Texas, had a $2.40 tax rate as against Port Arthur's tax rate of $1.78, and thus the comparison was not fairly presented.

"Tyler also has an outright 5 cent library tax, which is in excess of Port Arthur's support of its library here. Yet, despite that, and including the full amount of Tyler's library tax Tyler's tax rate is 69 cents less than what Reagan said it was, or $1.76. Including the school tax and library tax Tyler's library tax Tyler's rate is $2.45.

It has been informed that Sam B. Taylor, member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, spoke the representative thought of Tyler organized labor when he declared that 'Most of the opposition we have is from politicians who want to run things and cannot or people that they have misled. My view as a laboring man is that no city will make a mistake by changing to the city manager form of government.'

The tax investigation committee of the City Manager club comprises F. E. Gifford, George M. Craig, J. R. Denney, W. T. Hooker and Frank Trost.

MODERN AUTO

peculiar condition existent here. It has not been satisfactory. It has been such a failure that a former city manager from here has been called into consultation by officials of the movement against the city manager plan at Port Arthur in order to make capital out of its failure.

The operation of the city manager plan finds no more apt illustration than that of the man who bought a modern, mechanically excellent automobile and then proceeded to cut off one cylinder, put on buggy wheels and expected it to run. When it wouldn't run it was blamed on the car.

What Beaumont Has and Hasn't

In a nutshell Beaumont has:

A mayor.

Three city commissioners, of whom the mayor is the third.

Twelve members of the city council.

A city manager.

The city manager is named last because that's the position he occupies under Beaumont's hybrid system of government. This lineup provides a three-way compromise. The result is that Beaumont has a three-way system of government which is not administrative, not commission and certainly not city manager.

Beaumont citizens are frank to say that their government is just a case of too many cooks spoiling the broth.

Beaumont people are not affiliated in a polite way have found the system productive of much evil. Despite his handicaps, however, the city manager nonetheless deserves credit. He is surrounded by conditions which handicap initiative, nonetheless he has done some good. That is because the city manager plan is so good, properly applied, that even though it is the football of circumstance, all its advantages can not be repudiated by the politicians.

Politics vs. Business Methods

The thinking class of citizens of Beaumont would suggest from bitter experience that Port Arthur have nothing whatever to do with a plan similar to that in operation here. Do not accept a compromise. Do not mix a business form with politics. It can't be done. Insist on the city manager plan as operative with responsibility direct to the commissioners, who are in turn responsible direct to the people. Avoid divided allegiances such as arise under Beaumont's plan, which is the same as arise under a political plan.

The commissioners are the city's board of directors. The city manager is the operating head of the concern—the city—which is made up of taxpayers as stockholders. The people elect the commissioners. Electing them they voice confidence in them. The commissioners hire a city manager. They can hire him.

Not a Dictator

There is nothing dictatorial in his relationship with the people's chosen representatives. He is their hired man. He is a specialist in business matters. He knows the intricacies of contracts. He is familiar with engineering problems. The commissioners through him can get direct action. And they can fire him if he doesn't make good.

Such a procedure would have saved the Beaumont situation from its complexities, ambiguities and duplications of authority, by centralizing responsibility.

After all, the true city manager plan is only a means of providing business machinery for operating a city. Where sharp factional lines, jealousies and hatreds are symptoms of a political method of operation, the city manager plan because of its independence of politics removes the cause of such a condition, which is politics. It is the system which is wrong. It proves it is wrong because administration heads themselves, no matter how earnest they may be in their activities for their people's welfare, find themselves bound and tied by a system which they cannot escape.

Tiajuana Race Meet

Opens Thanksgiving

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 26.—With the opening of Tiajuana meet only 24 hours distant, San Diego is today thinking in terms of past performances and workouts.

The meet will run for 125 days and promises to draw a larger following than ever before.

The inaugural handicap, the feature race of the Thanksgiving Day program, will bring out some of the best distance runners now in training. Runstar, winner of last season's Ciffroth handicap, is among the list of 17 nominated for this event.

Robert Dollar Is Biggest to Dock Here

Coming to Port Arthur for cargo within a month after the completion of the 35-foot ship channel to the Gulf of Mexico is the British cargo ship Robert Dollar, the largest cargo ship ever scheduled to make this port, expected to dock at the Texas company terminals late this afternoon or early Thursday.

The big British freighter is 523 feet long, 58.2 feet wide, has a gross tonnage of 10,893 tons, net tonnage, 6,791; and deadweight tonnage of 14,400 tons. Loaded, the Robert Dollar will draw 25.6 feet, a light draft for a vessel of her tonnage, due to the wide beam. Twin screws, driven by two engines, developing over 4,000 horsepower, propel the ship.

Part cargo of case oil will be loaded on the Robert Dollar at the Texas company here, and the vessel will probably complete in time to sail next week for Shanghai and other ports in the Orient. The vessel comes to Port Arthur from Savannah, Ga., according to word from Tom Hagan, Port Arthur representative of the Lykes-Sittecoff company, agents for the ship in this port.

Sinking of Warships

Puts U. S. Navy Ahead

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The American navy developed facts out of the sinking of the United States battleship Washington, which may put it "years ahead" of other fleets, officials of the navy department said.

The giant hull plunged to the bottom off the Virginia capes yesterday under heavy gun fire.

All data collected during the sinking, including motion pictures and the most accurate data on the effect of explosions of the hull's armor plate will be brought to the navy department here for study.

TROOP 6 HERE TO GET HOME

Thanksgiving Day to Find Construction Launched

Troop 6, Boy Scouts, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus will start to build their new scout hut Thanksgiving day.

For the past two years Troop 6 saved and worked to accumulate the amount needed to build this hut. George C. Seuley is Scoutmaster who has directed the effort.

Mayor Logan presented the building permit with his compliments. Charles Salles, secretary of the Carpenters Union has offered his services toward the supervising of the erection and the members of the troop will do the building. The Fathers association has aided the project throughout, and a committee from this organization, composed of George Striell, A. Moreau, A. Rodriguez, M. Hardelek and F. A. Mosely are helping in the work.

CHARTER PHASE

draft. They are sole judges as to what kind of a charter they shall draft.

The charter which the charter commission frames, the attorney said this morning, must then be submitted to the voters to ballot upon at a time fixed by the charter commission not less than 40 days nor more than 90 days after completion of the draft.

Petition Action Not Legal

The ordinance calling an election for the purpose of electing a charter commission, and the ballot used at the election cannot have either printed or written on it in any form issues other than the two propositions of whether the city shall choose a charter commission, and who that commission shall be, Wistner concluded.

In the petition presented to the city commissioners Tuesday at the city hall by J. M. Reagan, on behalf of the Peoples Government league, the commissioners were requested to authorize an ordinance calling a charter commission election, and also to contain in the ballot an expression from the people as to whether they favored the city manager form of government or the present administration plan, which petition the city commission, by its action, concurred in. This cannot be done, according to the city attorney, since such a ballot would not be legal. Any question relating to the form of government must be contained in a separate ballot, and that ballot must be authorized by a separate ordinance.

No such ordinance has been authorized, Wistner admitted.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

In New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—See-sawing up and down Broadway I saw Eddie Cantor, passing like a dark shadow. Some day I'll get personal and ask him how much he weighs. . . . Saw Joe Cook, the pride of Evansville, talking to a fellow from the old home town. And in conversation he talks just about as fast as he does on the stage. . . . Saw Jules Brulaton, the senatorial looking husband of Hope Hampton, with the spirit of battle in his eye. Hope, you know, was displaced by Wilda Bennett as "Madame Pompadour" at the eleventh hour and 59th minute of the play's debut on Broadway. . . . Saw Sam Scribner, entrepreneur of "clean burlesque" and a powerful man he looks. He once was a blacksmith's apprentice in Brookville, Pa., also a tuba player in the band. . . . Saw George Gershwin, who, methinks, is one of the greatest living pianists, even though he is a devotee of jazz. . . .

Greenwich Village rapidly is becoming passé, now that bobbed hair, equality of sexes, self-determination and other such subjects have become common property of the nation. No new fad has been found to make Greenwich Village distinctive within itself.

However, the many little oddities which originated in New York's Bohemia have left their effect on other sections of the city. This is particularly true of restaurants.

Every section of the city, uptown and downtown Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn and even Staten Island, are dotted with little eating places that have no table-cloths but plenty of atmosphere. They all stress individuality and low prices.

One restaurant near the Pennsylvania Station thus blazes itself: "A quiet place, a comfortable place, a clean wholesome place, a distinctly different place." Furthermore it proclaims that exacting people may come there with anybody or alone and enjoy "the personal touch of a master cook." This place charges only 55 cents for lunch.

On Eighth avenue in the Thirties one may see almost any day drug addicts waiting for their needles. Thin, worried and pale they stand sometimes for hours while the peddler eludes the police. Most of them are ragged, but occasionally you may see a prosperous looking individual pathetically huddled with the down-and-outers to participate in his new-found cure.

Cynthia Gray Says:

POINTS ON POUNDAGE
By CYNTHIA GREY

Now that it's too cold to swim or play tennis, we begin the great winter sport of battling against bulk.

Your mirror will tell you what your best friend never will.

You can't eat your cake and have a figure too! So better a plate of spinach and a straight-line dress than chicken patties and a rubber reducing garment.

Learn to look the potato in the eye and pass it on to your dinner guest unless you aspire to become a damaged 46.

And as Bill Shakespeare would have said of dining out: "There is a destiny that ends our shapes."

QUESTIONS-ANSWERS

Dear Miss Grey: I'm 15 and old enough, I think, to go out to a movie sometimes with the other girls or a boy friend. My mother won't let me do this. Isn't it just because she's old-fashioned?—Marilyn.

Is she so old-fashioned? And is it so long ago that she was 15 herself? I think not. I think it's because she remembers how very young a girl is at 15 and how little she knows really about taking care of herself then that she's taking such good care of you.

Dear Miss Grey: There's been a misunderstanding between me and the girls I play bridge with. Ought I to go to them to explain things?—Mrs. Jane L.

No, I wouldn't. Did you ever happen to hear this bit of advice?—"Never explain. You friends don't need it and your enemies won't believe it anyway." Wait for the girls to come to you. And if you don't, you'll have kept your dignity.

FATHER IDENTIFIES

Authorities were undecided as to whether the boy met death by accident or violence.

TWENTIETH AMENDMENT TO GO BEFORE TEXAS STATE LEGISLATURE

Texas lawmakers of the Thirty-Ninth legislature will have submitted to them for ratification or rejection the proposed twentieth amendment to the Constitution of the United States. This is the text of the amendment:

"The congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under eighteen years of age."

This amendment has enlisted powerful support. The American Federation of Labor has declared for its ratification; the state federation of labor adopted a resolution urging its ratification by the Thirty-ninth legislature. Again, the state federation of Women's Clubs has declared for ratification and the Mother's Congress of Texas has voiced its approval of the proposed amendment.

Regardless of this, the amendment is going to meet with bitter opposition under the big dome at Austin this winter. Texas is a democratic state. Texas will have a woman governor after the passing of Pat Morris Neff. The national convention of the democratic party declined to make a positive declaration in favor of this amendment and the state convention of democrats held in the city of Austin practically ignored the amendment.

Many of the leaders of the dominant faction of the democratic party are strenuous advocates of state rights. They insist that the ratification of the twentieth amendment would be a gross usurpation of the power of the state to control its own affairs. Former Governor James E. Ferguson, in other years, has been an ultra-champion of the rights of the state. If he has experienced a change of heart then the change has not been commented upon by the editorial writers of the commonwealth. All employers of labor in Texas are said to be lined up against this amendment.

All manufacturers are opposing its ratification. All capitalists who believe that Texas is destined to become a great manufacturing state are opposed to the amendment. According to those who are in touch with conditions the state over, Joseph Weldon Bailey, General M. M. Crane, Joseph E. Cockrell and former governor Ferguson, who dominated the Austin convention, do not take kindly to the twentieth amendment and their influence will be thrown against it when it comes up for ratification or rejection in the winter of 1925.

State Senator John Davis of Dallas, who gave his support to Mrs. Ferguson in the runoff, although Dallas was a hotbed of opposition to the Fergusons and their political ambitions, will lead the fight for rejection in the upper house of the legislature. All the labor organizations and the women's organizations of the state will be found on the side of ratification.

All the business organizations, all the employers of labor and a vast army of citizens who are known as 'state righters' will be found upholding the hands of the lawmakers who are ready to vote for the rejection of the amendment. Two senators from Texas and eleven of the eighteen representatives voted for the submission to the legislature of the twentieth amendment.

Now will the two senators and the eleven representatives take a definite stand in the battle that is to come? Will they back up the demands of organized labor and the organized women of Texas or will they maintain an attitude of friendly neutrality?

CANCER

Cancer remains a baffling mystery. Experts tell the American College of Surgeons: Their researches indicate that there is no universal cancer germ, but rather a variety of parasites that cause this dread malady. A cure for one might not affect other groups.

Imaginative ancients regarded cancer as a monster that attaches itself to the body. Surgery now finds, in cancers, what look like liver, lung and kidney cells.

HAIR

"Baby nine weeks old, has had six haircuts." You saw her picture in the papers—little Alice Sue Winder of Norfolk, Va. In cases like this, physicians say, "Over-active endocrine glands." The thyroid in maturity, and the thymus gland to considerable extent in youth, regulates the growth and texture of the hair. If a universal cure for baldness ever is discovered, it'll be a glandular extract. Why discover it? Bald-headed men point out, grass never grows on a busy street.

INVISIBLE

Unnoticed, insects all about us carry on elaborate civilizations. Ants are as busy as people, and quite as serious about it. From Trinidad comes a museum collection of "parasol ants." They cultivate underground farms, growing tiny mushrooms for food as methodically as any truck gardener. For all we know, their activities may be quite as important "in the great scheme of things" as our own.

Considering what it is, nobody now has the nerve to say he takes a little for his stomach's sake.

UNIVERSAL POPULARITY OF A FAMOUS FAVORITE
By Minna Irving

Some love the skies of Italy,
And some the mountains grand
And crystal lakes and glaciers
Of scenic Switzerland;
And some old Holland with its dikes
Its windmills and canals,
Some Spain with ancient memories
Of Moors and madrigals.

Some much prefer fair France, and some
Green England's woods and ways
And some of dear America
Are lavish in their praise.
And some in bonny Scotland swear
They are content to rest,
But on Thanksgiving Day, behold!
They all like turkey best.

Girls and Boys Are Different Now
"When I was a girl," said a Modern Mother, "my second hand quilt me when he found I had had a previous fellow. He said: 'I won't take anybody's leavings.'"

"But my daughter's beau says: 'I don't care whose mamma you were, 'cause you're my sweet mamma now!'"
—Mrs. E. L. C.

An Improvement
Mary: "I'd rather flirt than eat."
Ann: "I'd rather flirt and eat."
—Isabel Lewis.

Joe's Follies
Little Joe, aged three was not permitted to have much candy, and when his aunt gave him an all-day sucker, without his mother's knowledge, Joe hastily started to get outside of it, with the natural sticky result.

At the height of his enjoyment, Joe was discovered by his mother! She asked him what he had in his mouth. Joe slowly removed the sucker from his mouth and replied: "Ats my lip-tick."

Don't count your chickens before they've escaped the autos.

They Fall for Me
Oh, I am the milk-fed Cake Eater,
And the pride of many a dame.
There isn't a lollypop sweeter,
So, of course, I'm well known to fame.

In the dance I know just how to clutch her.
The life of the party am I.
And I am the guy who can touch her
For the carfare home when I am shy.

The girls all declare I'm so dapper,
Not a jellybean spilling the beans;
I am loved by the meek and the flapper,
And favor is sought by the queens.

I am sure that the world is made for me,
Everywhere they bestow the glad glance;
My good looks continue to draw me
To the theatre, ball and dance.

I can say I am quite the cat's knuckles,
And also the slippery snakes knees;
I am also the man who sucks
On sodas and laps up pink teas.

Now, how can mere language express me?
The same of fashion am I.
In bell-bottomed trousers they dress me;
I invented the gay alibi.

The Affair at Flower Acres

© 1924 by NEA Service Inc.

Douglas Raynor is found shot through the heart in the early evening on the floor of the sun room of Flower Acres, his Long Island home. Standing over the dead man, pistol in hand, is Malcolm Finley, former sweetheart of Raynor's wife, Nancy, Eva Turner, Raynor's nurse, stands by the light switch. Then Nancy, her brother, Orville Kent, Ezra Goddard, friend of Finley, Miss Mattie, Raynor's sister and others enter the room. Lionel Raynor, son of Douglas Raynor by first marriage, comes to claim his father's estate, but is forced to reveal that his claim is false. Pennington Wise, a celebrated detective, and Zizi, his girl assistant, are called to take the case out of the hands of Detective Dobbins. The print of an overshoe on the floor of the sun room heightens the mystery. Now Zizi and Dolly Fay, a neighbor's girl, go to the house of Grim Gannon, a servant on the pretense of looking at his collection of butterflies.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
But Zizi was after something other than butterflies. After a cautious glance outside at the old man, she shook a warning forefinger at Dolly and began to poke around among the litter that was piled in corners or on tables and settees.

Then she opened the cupboard door, and with a look of disgust on her face, grabbed an umbrella and poked among the shoes and slippers that were flung in there in an untidy heap.

With the umbrella she dragged out one old shoe after another, and, at last, with a suppressed cry of triumph, she pulled out a shiny overshoe.

It was a man's rubber, and a new one—of the type called slippers. That is, it had almost no upper, it was little more than a sole, with a narrow rim of rubber to hold it on the foot.

A little more poking brought forth its mate, and Zizi kicked the other rubbish back into the closet, and picked up her find with eagerness.

"The rubbers," she whispered. "The very ones!"

"Oh, my!" Dolly said, clasping her little hands in dismay. "Then old Gannon is the murderer after all! I'm so sorry!"—and the child broke into tears.

"Hush up," said Zizi, shaking her. "Don't let him hear. We must take these to Mr. Wise at once. Come along."

She didn't especially want Dolly's company, but still less did she dare leave her there where she might divulge the secret of Zizi's find, and which Zizi was determined should remain a secret until she could tell Wise about it.

The finding of the rubbers was merely the last resort of a long hunt. Zizi had looked everywhere. They must be proved up by the print on the sun room floor—and then—

Zizi easily concealed the rubbers in her capacious coat pockets, and beckoning Dolly they left the room. She paused on the porch to speak to Gannon, with intent to learn if he had any suspicion of her real errand to his room.

Apparently he had not, for he only said, "Well, girls, see the butterflies!"

"Yes," Zizi returned, "and they're wonderful. Shall you collect more or is your stock complete?"

"I'll get more from South America, when I go down there. I'm going to get off as soon as I can get my money from those lawyers."

Dolly looked at him, open mouthed. How could this man, who had killed his benefactor, speak so casually of getting away with the money he had so fearfully come by?

"You must miss Mr. Raynor," Zizi said.

"I do," Gannon returned, and his glance at her was equally sharp. "He was a life-long friend, almost—"

"Yes, an uncertain friend," and Gannon looked reminiscent.

"Now, Raynor'd be as nice and friendly as one could wish, and then again he'd be the very dickens and all—yes, ma'am, the very dickens and all!"

"Was he ugly to you—as well as to his wife?" Zizi went on.

"Was he? Well, he was! Why, the things Douglas Raynor has said to me and done to me, I wouldn't stand from any other mortal man! That I wouldn't! He was a bad man—it's all very well to say speak only good of the dead—but that man don't deserve a good word even in death!"

"You're not sorry he's gone, then?" Zizi said.

"Not I! He was my benefactor, some say. Well, he gave me this house, he gave me a sum of money in his will—but, what did I do for him?"

"What did you?" Zizi prompted him.

"I kept his secrets for him—that's what I did! When he married that lovely lady—when he persuaded her to marry him, he did it by a lie! He made her think her father a blackguard, when he was that blackguard himself—"

"And what were you?" cried Zizi, her eyes blazing. "What do you call yourself to stand by and see the lovely lady sold—and sold by fraud to a blackguard and a brute! What excuse do you give for your conduct?"

"Only that Raynor made me," "Ah, he had a hold on you, then?" "That he did! A strangle-hold—as he had on many others. And when he lied to the lady, when he pretended that she must marry him or disgrace her father, her brother and herself—my hands were tied—I could do nothing."

"When did Mrs. Raynor learn of her husband's deceit?"

"Only a few weeks before she shot him."

Zizi looked at him curiously. Dolly stood staring, her face the picture of perplexity. She wanted to speak, but Zizi's warning looks restrained her.

"Yes," Gannon repeated, she never knew about it till a month or so ago. Her brother now, he never knew of it—I should say, until after Raynor was dead. You see, Mrs. Raynor should suffer anything and everything rather than any sorrow or trouble should touch her brother. They're a devoted pair."

"And you think Mrs. Raynor killed her husband?" Zizi said.

Gannon shifted uneasily.

"I ain't got no opinion—for publication, miss," he said. "I'd rather not tell what I think."

"I should say you wouldn't!" exclaimed Dolly, unable to keep silent another instant.

Whereupon Zizi dragged her away.

"You go home, Dolly," she said, "and don't you mention one word of all this to me, or to any one. If you do you'll make more trouble than even Pennington Wise can clear up. Do you promise?"

"Yes, I promise, Zizi, Oh, whenever thought that old curmudgeon did it! Just to get his money to go to South America!"

"Never mind all that now, Dolly. You just run home, and go about your own affairs. And if you love Mrs. Raynor, you keep still—for her sake."

"I will, oh, Zizi, I will," Dolly obeyed orders.

Zizi went slowly on to the Raynor house.

She found Pennington Wise with Mrs. Raynor and Finley, all in Nan's sitting room.

Very grave talk was in progress, and as Zizi entered Nan was saying:

"I must stand by my confession, Mr. Wise. I must insist that I shot my husband. I hope a jury will not deal with me too severely, for I assure you I was tortured beyond the lot of most women. I never loved Mr. Raynor, I was tricked into marriage with him, I consented to it to save my father's honor and reputation and, too, to save my brother from knowledge of our father's guilt—as I supposed. Then, when I learned that my father had never been guilty at all, but that my husband had lied to me—can you wonder at my hatred of him? Also, remember that, he was a drug addict—and that when denied the morphine he craved, he became a veritable fiend. I felt I must try to save him from the inevitable fate of such indulgence, so I honestly tried. But it was all too much for me. I almost lost my mind—perhaps I did lose my mind." The sad face looked suddenly brighter, as if in hope that a mental unbalance would help to exonerate her.

"No, Mrs. Raynor, you haven't lost your mind—and Zizi came in and slipped into a seat next to Nan, and took her white hand in her own two little brown ones. "You're all right, mentally, morally and physically. Penny, here are the overshoes."

From her coat pocket, Zizi produced the rubbers and handed them over to Wise.

The detective took them, and without a word, turned them over to look at the soles. A single nod of his head showed Zizi that he now knew all that whatever was the story the rubbers told, it was final and complete.

But the effect on Nancy Raynor was as disastrous as it was unexpected. She turned perfectly white, she trembled like a leaf, and had Zizi not flung an assisting arm round her, she would have fallen from her chair.

"Those are my husband's—those are Mr. Raynor's overshoes!" she exclaimed.

"Are you sure?" asked Wise.

"Of course, I'm sure. He bought them about a week before he died. They are a new model—he had never worn them."

"This," and Wise held up the right one, "this is the overshoe that made the footprint on the floor of the sun room."

"Yes"—Nan almost choked—"I—I wore them—I put them on—"

Soft Materials, Fluffy Furs and Soft Drapes Feature New Negligees

THERE is no garment like the negligee for exercising one's ingenuity and indulging in one's favorite fabric, period and design. Negligees of today are made of anything from the finest silk to the toughest of corduroys. They are fashioned after the period of the French eighteenth century, or after the modern, made in velvet and fur; or done in the most modern of tailored lines; or after something very oriental in brocade and beaded materials. Negligees of today know no time, and might come from any place.

If one has the usual type of boudoir, done in orchid pinks, gold lace and taffeta, a negligee to match the color scheme would be charming. Either an orchid lavender or an orchid pink will be adorable. A negligee of this nature is a dainty thing in orchid taffeta—a heavenly shade in that material. The trimming is of the softest marquis, such a haze, pale, old blue. The wrap is draped up toward the left hip, where it is clasped by a bouquet of tinsel flowers, all silver and lavender and pink. Utterly charming!

Another charming negligee has a straight, almost tight fitting slip of pink silk, with a cape of cream lace following a decorative oval line, bordered in rich brown fur. Silver ribbons lend brilliance to this very feminine outfit.

Another lovely house robe is in fuchsia velvet, and cut after a modern pattern. It is trimmed in a triangular panel of gold lace in the front, ending in a purple tassel. The sleeves are faced in this same lace, and are finished in tassels, too, but of a shorter length than the first. A simple, yet very effective negligee is of green crepe de chine trimmed in gold lace. It is draped up on the left side where it is caught with a cluster of gold metal ribbons, which fall in a shower to the hemline. Still another negligee is of the finest kind of wool, crocheted into a three-quarter length jacket. This is a gossamer thing, all but transparent. Borders of pale pink and pale blue are crocheted in and it is trimmed with a double band of marabout—one band of pink and one of blue.

Pretty Shower For Mrs. Joe Scanlin

Mrs. Joe Scanlin, a pretty bride of the month, was tendered a surprise Monday evening by members of the Monday Night Bridge club at her home, 2400 Procter street. The club members assembled at the home of Miss Albert Leary, who acted as hostess on the occasion, and motored to the Scanlin home, where they surprised Mrs. Scanlin upon her return from an auto ride.

Mrs. Scanlin received many gifts for her attractive apartment. The guests chatted during the evening, following which Miss Leary served a refreshment course.

Those who took part were Miss Albert Leary, Miss Stella Whitcomb, Miss Anita Cripp, Miss Juliet George, Miss Bessie Satterwhite, Miss Dewey Howard, Mrs. A. V. Cuthrell, Mrs. R. Gray, Mary and Arthur Feshan, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Scanlin.

Thanksgiving Dinner Given By W. S. I. Club

One of the social attractions of the week was the annual Thanksgiving dinner of the Women's Self Improvement club at the Department club yesterday afternoon. The club colors were effectively featured in the arrangement of yellow and white chrysanthemums, both in the assembly room and in the dining room. The table centerpieces were composed of the yellow and white blossoms, the motif being further reflected in the menu and in the menu. A Thanksgiving dinner was served by the hostess, Mrs. Tom Hughes, assisted by her committee, Mrs. C. A. Pearson, Mrs. B. A. McLaughlin, and Mrs. Guy Carroll.

Thanksgiving place cards were read by each member, the cards being sent the club by Mrs. A. F. Graham, a club member visiting in New York. The club sent return greetings to Mrs. Graham. After dinner, the roll call was responded to with facts about the pilgrims, and a social hour was then spent in the assembly room.

Covers were laid for twenty-five, the guests including Mrs. C. C. Blackman, Mrs. Cora Bunker, Mrs. Guy Carroll, Mrs. R. A. Coffey, Mrs. P. S. DeWitt, Mrs. F. E. Gifford, Mrs. T. W. Hughes, Mrs. A. L. Humphreys, Mrs. John Imhoff, Mrs. J. P. Landers, Mrs. B. A. McLaughlin, Mrs. Laura Miller, Mrs. C. A. Pearson, Mrs. J. C. Reynolds, Mrs. S. E. Schmitz, Mrs. G. M. Sims, Mrs. Ada Smith, Mrs. W. J. Steel, Mrs. W. S. Thomas, Mrs. C. E. Weidner, Mrs. K. A. Young, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. Harold Peck, Miss Wynne Strange of Houston and Mrs. C. Hallum.

Benefit Card Party Is Delightful Event

A benefit card party was given Monday evening at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. M. Blackfield in the Mobil-addition. The guests included members of the Council of Jewish Women and their friends.

Bridge lamps, arranged about the rooms, cast a soft radiance over the players and formed an unusually charming setting for the affair. Ten tables of players enjoyed the games with Mrs. M. Blackfield receiving the ladies' prize for high score, and A. D. Schieman being awarded the gentlemen's prize. The no-trump prize was presented to Mrs. H. Goldman. A refreshment course was offered at the close of the games.

WHILERS CLUB ENTERTAINED

Members of the Whilers club were entertained with an informal luncheon Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock by Mrs. O. L. Lantz at her home, 2715 Twelfth street.

DOUBLE WEDDING TAKES PLACE AT LIBERTY

Port Arthur friends will be interested to learn of the double wedding of Miss Della David and Mr. Jack Ames and Miss Stella Hathaway and Mr. Richard Blair, which was solemnized in Liberty Sunday evening.

Both Mrs. Ames and Mrs. Blair are well known in Port Arthur and Mr. Ames and Mr. Blair are equally well known young men of Houston.

Mrs. Ames' wedding costume was a traveling suit of brown with accessories to harmonize and Mrs. Blair was attired in a blue traveling suit with harmonizing accessories. Both brides carried an arm cluster of sweetheart roses.

After a wedding trip via automobile to Pensacola, Fla., the young couples will make their home in Houston.

MRS. E. M. CORLEY REPORTED ILL

Friends of Mrs. E. M. Corley will be glad to learn that she is improving after being confined to her home, 1741 Lake Shore drive, with an attack of influenza and bronchial trouble.

PEOPLE WHO WERE ONCE GOOD LOOKING

A heartrending and yet interesting thing happened in a downtown store when a middle-aged lady got into a loud argument with a clerk. "I know what I want," she kept saying. "I have tried all the other things, but I know from what I saw it do for some friends of mine that it is Black and White Ointment which gets rid of those pimples and blotches. I was just as pretty as any girl when I was young, but I got careless and now I am in the fix you see."

So many people are now insisting on Black and White Ointment, and Black and White Soap, to get rid of pimples, blotches, eczema, rash, tetter, ringworm, "breaking out," etc., because they see and hear of the thousands of others who now know they can depend upon it. And they are more economical, too. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and Soap.—Adv.

Endeavors Set Goal For 75 Next Sunday

With their goal set at 75 for next Sunday evening's service, the Christian Endeavor society of the First Christian church outlined plans to reach that mark last evening at a session of the executive committee at Mrs. H. P. Foote's home, 1826 Ninth street. Miss Gladys Garrett will have charge of the program at this service, which starts promptly at 6:30 o'clock, and several interesting features are being arranged. The decorating committee will be comprised of Miss Garrett, B. C. Nowlin and H. P. Foote.

Plans were also discussed for a Christmas party to be held Friday, Dec. 19. Miss Gladys Garrett, Mrs. H. C. Holmes and B. C. Nowlin comprise the entertainment committee which has the party in charge.

Arrangements also were made for a contest, which the Endeavor society is considering starting soon. A committee composed of S. E. Boney, chairman, Miss Wee Wee Griffin and Mrs. H. P. Foote, was appointed to draw up rules which are to be presented to the executive committee for approval and decision about the contest.

For the purpose of assisting the less fortunate of the city during the Christmas holidays and for preparing a box for the Juliet Fowler Orphanage at Dallas, a committee was appointed to purchase useful articles, this committee being comprised of Miss Gladys Garrett, Mrs. S. E. Boney and Mrs. C. H. Boney. Announcement was made that the Endeavors were invited to a party at the church Thursday evening, Dec. 4, the party being in the form of a "circuit," which was being sponsored by the Women's Bible class.

JUNIOR MISSIONARY SOCIETY ENTERTAINED

The Junior Missionary society of the First M. E. Church, South, had an enjoyable session Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Galloway, 525 Atlanta avenue. Story telling featured the afternoon's meeting. Nell Barron telling the story of "The Chinese Shepherd" and Dora Hunt telling how Juan lost his humpback. Dora Hunt also gave a poem, and Mrs. Galloway read a missionary story. Games were enjoyed after the program and refreshments were served. Those present were Dora Hunt, Mattie Monton, Merle Davis, Nell Barron and Mrs. Galloway.

MACHINE GUNS GUARDS NEGRO FROM ATTACK

NEWBORN, N. C., Nov. 20.—A machine gun company of the North Carolina National Guard was placed in front of the Newborn jail today to protect John Goddette, negro, from a mob of several hundred citizens, who had gathered to avenge the death of Edna Williams, 12-year-old school girl, who, it is explained, Goddette killed when he drove his automobile into a group of school children at Croatan yesterday.

Attractive Luncheon Given by Mrs. Abshire

Mrs. L. L. Abshire gave a bridge-luncheon yesterday at her home, 1948 Procter street, for the Tuesday Bridge club. The autumn season was symbolized by a profusion of beautiful yellow chrysanthemums, with which the entire suite was decorated, while the Thanksgiving motif was suggested in the table appointments and the luncheon served preceding the games. The high score favor was won by Mrs. W. B. Johnson and the guest prize was awarded to Mrs. Frank Imhoff.

Three tables of players were present. Mrs. Fred Dodge, Mrs. Frank Imhoff, Mrs. C. L. Melver, Mrs. Ed Vaughan, Mrs. Pat Reed, Mrs. D. P.

LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CONTINUED

"Of course," said Priscilla, "I did not care to listen but I was alone in the room just outside the office and, as Mrs. Burke seemed very much engaged, I did not want to disturb her, so I kept perfectly still."

"The other woman seemed much disappointed, for she said, 'I could not think that two such wealthy women as you and Mrs. Prescott would care to keep this shop.'"

At this Mrs. Burke got quite peevish, Priscilla said. "Because a man is wealthy does everyone think that he must always give up his life-work or a prosperous business?" she asked with asperity.

The woman answered hesitatingly, "No, I suppose not, but it is different with a man. One hardly expects a woman to work if she does not have to. I have to work, Mrs. Burke, and I have a chance to invest some money in a going business, consequently I would be very glad to pay you the top price for yours."

Priscilla said that she knew that John did not know that you were a half partner in the business because whatever Walter Burke might let Ruth do, she knew that any son of mine would be too proud to have people know that his wife was in business for herself when he could support her.

Of course I am not going to say a word to John until I know that Priscilla was not mistaken. I can hardly believe that she was not, for it does not seem possible that any wife would keep a secret of any kind from her husband and this shop has been going on for over a year.

I shall miss Priscilla. She always brings me something to think about.

ROSE ON CITY MANAGER PLAN

Attorney Voices Reasons For Skepticism

Judge J. E. Rose, in explaining his attitude toward the proposed city manager plan of government following the meeting at the city hall Monday, said today that he was not opposed to the system but was opposed to any attempt at this time to apply it under the conditions existing in Port Arthur.

"I fully appreciate the merits of the system of having a manager for a city to conduct its business affairs and be responsible to a commission of men elected by the people, but under the conditions existing in Port Arthur, with a factional fight on, what sort of men might be elected by popular vote?"

"I am thinking more of the government of the city, the application of its laws and its police regulations. In whose hands might these duties fall even though the citizenship elects a commission to select a manager to make the appointments?"

"I have had much personal experience in my law practice in Port Arthur with different heads of departments and know the extent of power of the 'party in office' and I know what the factions are here."

"Should, through special effort or campaign arrangements, a certain element come in power, and the element is numerous in Port Arthur and might be headed together for a solid vote, would it not be possible for them to elect a commission which in turn would employ a city manager of their choice, regardless of qualifications and the whole municipal machinery be concentrated into a factional unit which would be in absolute control of every department, regardless of the best interests of the city?"

"If we knew that three business men of standing could be certain of election, men who had only the best interests of the city at heart and who are not identified with any of the factions, I believe that the city manager plan would be a good one for Port Arthur and it would solve many problems now confronting the taxpayers, but with the political maneuvering being entered into by the backers of the present administration, even if the opposition brought the matter to a vote of the people, I have the fear that the administration backers might win the election of a commission which would be guided by certain factional leaders to the detriment of the city, both from a business and governmental standpoint."

Rajah Paid Hubby Million Hush Money

LONDON, Nov. 26.—A suave, immaculate villain from a melodrama of real life held the spotlight in Justice Darling's crowded court today and told of the ruse of an Indian rajah and the division of the spoils.

No terrified of publicity was this rajah, who was known as "four highness" that he gave a treacherous side de camp, who was in on the plot, two blank checks. These were filled in for $750,000 each.

Robinson, the husband of Miss Mayne Robinson who was "surprised" in bed with her dusky suitor, finally accepted $200,000 as his share and a like amount was given his wife and a companion, Mrs. Beran.

Arctic Beats Africa as Thrill Producer Says 'Flivver' Hunter

By PHILIP J. SINNOTT
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—If you're looking for thrills, don't think of chasing big game through the African Veldt, where it's a long way between water holes. Just cruise along the Alaskan coast in a small schooner, and you'll get all sorts of them dodging whales and lassoing polar bears, according to Sidney Snow. And as Sidney chased giraffes all over Africa in his dad's flivver, he ought to know.

Young Snow, son of H. A. Snow, curator of the Oakland Museum of Natural History, is just back from breaking through polar ice, filming and bagging big game specimens.

And in addition to the sport of the chase, his trip included a narrow escape from death in the floes when the vessel caught fire; discovery of the bodies of Stefansson expedition victims; breakage of a crankshaft while the ship was in the Arctic wilderness; and several close calls from having the little schooner ground to bits by polar ice.

They Got the Bear
Snow's jaunt to the Arctic was made on the fur trading schooner Herman, commanded by Captain Louis Lane, veteran of northern waters. The broken crankshaft forced the Herman into St. Michael for repairs, and it was two months before the trip could be resumed.

"Don't tackle it," warned Alaskans when the Herman's crew announced it was going north. This year's ice was the worst in a decade.

But the Herman and Snow were out for thrills. And the first day out of St. Michael's they commenced getting them.

A huge polar bear was sighted. Captain Lane snared it with a lasso, then threw other ropes over it. Then the fun began, with the bear fighting, snarling and diving to escape.

It finally was overpowered and drawn alongside. A submerged net and a derrick landed it on deck.

Solve Karluk Mystery
Cruising along, the Herman came to Herald Island, and Lane and Snow paid it the first visit of any sailormen in 10 years. And this visit cleared part of one of the northland's mysteries—the fate of the men lost to the world when the schooner Karluk of Stefansson's expedition was lost in 1914.

Skeletons of four men gave mute testimony to their fate. They had frozen to death, for there was food in their supplies, and their guns had ammunition.

It was a thrill to clear the mystery. It was a thrill for Snow to take possession of the island for the United States. And it was a thrill, as the filming of big game continued, when a whale Snow was filming from a smaller boat, suddenly attacked the small craft. Captain Lane harpooned the monster just as it was about to crash the boat with its tail.

"Say, this is my idea of real life," says Eddie O'Brien, 14, who went along as a steersman.

"Africa has nothing on the Arctic for adventure," avers Snow. "If you feel too biased, let me prescribe a trip to the northland."

14 CONVICTED OF MAIL FRAUD

Fleeced Investors Out Of Millions

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 26.—Judge Geiger in federal court today postponed sentence of the 14 convicted defendants in the Hawkins Mortgage company mail fraud case until December 19.

The indictments on which the 14 men were found guilty charged them with aiding Morton Hawkins, president of the Hawkins Mortgage company, in swindling thousands of investors in twenty states out of millions of dollars.

Hawkins, indicted with the other defendants, is a fugitive from justice.

Selected by the industrial arts department of Texas A. and M. to meet in conference with members of the college faculty, T. A. Butler, director of the industrial arts department in the Port Arthur public schools is spending this week at College Station, as guest of the college.

The conference was called to go into problems of the industrial arts work in Texas public schools, and the invitation extended Butler is regarded as a signal recognition of his work in Port Arthur.

ROBBER OF HATFIELDS HELD FOR MURDER

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Harry Hill, so tough, according to police, that he went down to Kentucky "stuck up" the Hatfields and stole their whisky, was under arrest here today for the murder of Alexander Dombrosky, a farmer living near Detroit.

The only person who could identify Dombrosky's killer—his widow—was mysteriously murdered in her home several months ago.

Four-fifths of the world's oysters in 1924, it is estimated, are produced by the United States.

ROBERT DOLLAR IS DUE TODAY

Will Arrive Off Sabine Bar
About 5 P. M.

Wireless advices from the steamship Robert Dollar today indicated the vessel will arrive off Sabine bar about 5 o'clock this afternoon. The ship is expected to dock at the Texas Company early Thursday, according to word from the office of Lykes-Sgiteovich company, agents for the Robert Dollar. This ship is said to be the largest cargo vessel ever scheduled for Port Arthur.

The steamship Volunteer may complete loading case oil at the Texas Company this afternoon in time to sail today for Houston, where additional cargo will be lifted. The Volunteer is in the Far East service operated out of Port Arthur and other Gulf of Mexico ports.

Completing discharge of canned fruits and vegetables at the Cotton docks here, the steamship Lake Guntt shifted over to the Texas Company terminals and is discharging shocks. The steamship George Pierce, loading out with lumber and case oil for South America, is still at the cotton docks berth.

BOAT SAILS WITHOUT SAILS

FLETTNER'S BOAT, SHOWING THE 60-FOOT ROTORS FORE AND AFT.

They laughed at Columbus and at Robert Fulton and at thousands of the men whose vision has made the world move forward.

And now, if there ever was a prime object for derision, it is Anton Flettner, of Berlin, and his new sailless, engineless ship which he moves by what he calls a "rotor."

The trouble for the jokers is that it seems to work.

Trial trips are reported marvelously successful. It is said to reduce crews, save space and effect economies estimated at from 35 to 60 per cent. It is a revolution in ocean transportation as completely as did the steamship.

Flettner's ship, the Buckau, is a 2000-ton freighter, rebuilt for his experiments. The masts are removed, and in their place are two steel cylinders, rising from the keel and standing about 60 feet in the air. They are about nine feet in diameter. A small electric motor is used to start them revolving, and as they spin around the ship moves. Their speed reaches 120 revolutions a minute.

Relieves Headache

A little Musterole, rubbed on forehead and temples, will usually drive away headache. A clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard, Musterole is a natural remedy with none of the evil after-effects so often caused by "internal medicine."

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 26.—"Boss, you're sure coming to a place where you'll find anything is whiskey," was the remark the porter made to me as I neared Key West, Uncle Sam's Gibraltar.

From beer to champagne the card he gave me took in the whole list of drinks known to the pre-Volstead era. And the prices were not so high—much less than those in other cities furnishing liquor.

But the taxi drivers have no monopoly on the bootlegging trade. Soft drink parlors are to be found frequently. And the only thing soft about them is the brains of those customers who imagine that soda pop is all they sell.

There is no necessity for identification. Just name your poison and it will be served you.

Best Cuban beer—50 cents a bottle; Bacardi rum—25 cents a shot; Scotch whisky—35 cents a drink.

Conviction by jury trial is almost hopeless here. The worst the bootlegger has to fear is the loss of his cargo and his craft, but with the many channels into which he may run, it is a hard job to find them.

Much of the liquor brought into Key West is shipped to points farther north by the railroad.

The prohibition agents are convinced that there is a huge conspiracy to flood the north with illicit liquor and a close watch is now being kept on all freight shipments.

The Port Arthur fire department made a run to Pear Ridge about 7 o'clock this morning in response to a call for assistance sent in by telephone.

A small dwelling caught fire from a defective flue, but by the time the Port Arthur firemen arrived on the scene a bucket brigade, formed by citizens, had extinguished the flames which did but slight damage.

CANCER KILLS MANY CHILDREN

Figures Show Young Don't Escape Disease

That cancer, a disease generally associated with adult life, is responsible for a considerable number of deaths among children and adolescents has been shown by a study of 90,175 deaths from cancer among 15,000,000 industrial policy holders during a period of 12 years. In this study it was discovered that 1,190 deaths were those of persons under 25 years.

The results of this survey show that one-third of all brain cancers occurred among persons under 25; of bone cancers and those of the kidneys and suprarenals, 25 per cent. were under 25; and of those of the lung and pleura, 12 per cent.

"It has been recognized, also, that bone cancers are often associated with ment of the bones, which accounts, sometimes in the growth and development for their frequent occurrence in children," says the bulletin. "Tumors of the kidneys are divided by specialists into two distinct groups, one of which occurs almost entirely among children. These are complicated tumors which are difficult to classify. Many of them have to be thrown into a group of tumors arising from congenital remnants as they show elements evidently derived from embryonic kidney structures, embryonic nerve structures, etc. This data offers some explanation of the high prevalence of kidney malignancy among children."

"A WOMAN WHO SINNED."
A woman who sinned in the Cameo theater is a story of a woman's fall from grace and her redemption through the impassioned pleadings of her own son.

The story briefly tells of the life of the wife of a small town minister, who deprived of her rightful heritage of love is tempted to take dinner with a New York reporter on board his yacht when it puts in at the small Connecticut village in which she and her husband and baby live.

Although she is more sinned against than sinning, rather than return to her husband and child disgraced, she goes to the city, seeking revenge. She divulges the fraudulent speculations of the betrayer to the authorities and he is sent to prison.

Fifteen years later, we find her a hardened, worldly woman, and it is only after an accidental meeting with her own son, who has become famous as the "Boy Evangelist" that she repents and returns to her husband who has been waiting for her all these years.

EGYPT KICKS TO LEAGUE

Protests British Demands
On Nation

GENEVA, Nov. 26.—The secretaries of the league of nations today received a protest from Egypt, regarding that country's difficulties with England arising out of the latter's demands following the assassination of Sir Lee Stack.

NEW PICTURE PLAY

When putting forth the qualities of a motion picture, an abundance of superlatives is the thing most needed, according to the unwritten law of motion picture publicity and advertising men. A photoplay is always the "most stupendous," "most beautiful and spectacular" and the "greatest ever produced."

With regard to "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," the latest screen production of Mary Pickford at the Peoples theater today, we are told by Manager Holton that the use of these well worn superlatives is justified.

Weeks were spent in the selection of the cost. Sets were constructed after thorough study and research had been made. On the screen one sees the impressive castles of early England set in the landscape that transport the viewer to that picturesque country.

The play is from Charles Major's widely read novel, "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall." Special music and a special presentation will feature this showing.

Nightmares and unpleasant dreams are said to be cured by use of a newly compounded medicine.

The scarab was regarded as a symbol of eternal life in ancient Egypt.

Nose Turns To Rock Despite Specialists

Philadelphia, Nov. 26.—A case of rhino scleroma, a rare disease which hardens the nose to almost rock-like texture, is challenging specialists at the Howard hospital.

The victim is a man who has been suffering for five years. Many specialists have been called into consultation, but the patient has obtained little relief.

In the early stages of the disease the nose assumes a tough, leathery texture and it gradually hardens until the nostrils close entirely. In the last stage partial strangulation ensues.

GOLF FANS TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF TURKEY DAY IN FLIGHTS OVER THE COUNTRY CLUB COURSE OMORROW, PRO BOB EVANS ANNOUNCES

Jackets Leave Today to Clash Against Ball High

21 Players Make Trip In Charge Of Smith, Sandefur

BY BILL ARCHER

COACH Lee O. Smith and Assistant Coach Penn Sandefur leave here this afternoon at 3 o'clock in charge of a well-drilled Yellowjacket contingent to clash against Ball High school of Galveston on the latter's territory tomorrow in a Thanksgiving Day classic.

This was the announcement made at the high school building this morning to The News.

Twenty-one players will make the trip, including the following:

Here's Jacket Squad.

Crow, Cromer, Turner, Blanchard, Captain Russell Butand, Taylor, Trow, Morgan, W. Butand, Schlicker, Butterbeck, Clark, Bourg, Booz, W. Crouch, Black, Elliott, Iglesias, Pree, Welch, Z. Crouch.

Drilled consistently since their encounter with the fast Purple team of Beaumont High, champions of this district the Yellowjackets entrain for Galveston possibly one of the strongest contingents of the district they themselves.

Their closely played and bitterly fought clash against the Purple indicated the strength of the squad, and sends the team away from Port Arthur with the hopes of the high school and the club followers of a victory over Ball High.

Will Settle Arguments.

Earlier in the season, Ball High forfeited a regularly scheduled game with the Jackets to Port Arthur because of injuries to the Ball High team sustained against Beaumont.

The game tomorrow counts neither way in the district running, as that issue has already been settled between Beaumont and Houston Central, but it will determine the comparative strength of the two high schools, and may serve as a basis of settling several arguments about the two clubs which were prevalent here when Ball High forfeited the original game.

Many are picking Ball High to trim the locals tomorrow, but the chances are they will play on a toss-up.

Sport Shorts

Injuries have kept John Levi, famous Haskell Indian fullback, from creating the furore he did in 1923.

Doe Hagley, well-known trainer, once sold Gene Tunney's contract for $5000.

Jack Dempsey has promised to visit Cleveland to engage in an exhibition for ex-service men.

Derrill Pratt, Detroit second baseman, may retire from the big show for college work as baseball coach.

"Dazzle" Vance keeps in shape in the north during the winter by bowling, but shifts to golf when he goes south.

Crowley, Notre Dame's brilliant halfback, answers to the nickname of "Sleepy" Princeton and the Army take exceptions.

Wyckoff, who starred in the backfield for Georgia Tech last season, is the team's best bet this year. He is a consistent ground gainer.

Jim Corbett writes that in his opinion Peter Jackson was the greatest heavyweight of all time, not boxing Dempsey.

Miguel Ferrara of Argentine, one of Forno's sparring partners, is coming along at a snail's pace. Having two straight knockouts to his credit.

Inability to field his position, particularly the handling of bunts, keeps Pitcher Harris of the Athletics from being a star. He has the stuff.

Sandy Herd, noted Scot, is the world's record hole-in-one player, having 17 "aces" to his credit.

The following choices are not guaranteed victories, nor do we recommend them to any one as a basis for wagering. They show, in our opinion, which teams we believe will emerge from the Thanksgiving Day games victorious over the others, and we offer them with the proverbial grain of salt.

We choose:

Arkansas over T. C. U., possibly by 13 points.

Beaumont over Robstown, possibly by one touchdown or better.

Austin College over Hendrix.

Howard Payne over Simmons College.

S. U. over Tulane.

Rice over Baylor, possibly by one touchdown on forward pass.

SMALL CHANCE IN FIGHT RING

Charley Weinert, who recently showed up Luis Firpo more completely than any one believed possible, happens to be an old bug of the ring. Five or six years ago he had his chance. Coming along as a youngster, the Newark Hungarian showed symptoms of class; he had the fight, the heart and the natural instincts.

Many thought that in time he would surely develop into championship material. But Weinert was good looking. And the white lights and the ladies with carmine lips beckoned. You know the rest of the story.

In a most astonishingly short time the most promising looking heavyweight in this country became a rank pork and heaver. Third-rounders bumped him off. Promoters wouldn't hire him. The fans wouldn't pay to see him take a beating.

Ambitious managers used him to "build up" their phantoms. The line, "Kid Sappo stops Weinert in first round," became a standing head in newspapers the country over.

Meantime Firpo came up from the Argentine, eventually met Dempsey and with one gesture, more lucky than skillful, tapped the champion clear outside the ring.

Immediately Firpo was hailed as a man killer, a supergiant and a purist citizen deserving of vast respect. Some 14 months pass and Weinert, the "stuffed shirt," fighting in something like his old-time form, slaps the supergiant around the ring with all the ease of a cat playing with a gray mouse.

Doap alluv gits a final and snarlier tumbler in Turkey Day classic, an everybody alluv plays his best football in loose or draw. So them "fightin' Irish micks" that wears that orange and white Texas U. is a win by a nose. Eneynow, he's a win in front till they pass that finish line, an hear recently, they's gone 'takin' snap-shot pickchurs up 't finishes in hors races, too, 't settle arguments.

A feller calls me up lass nite an sez, sez he: "Bill, whoddy pick 't win in Howard Payne-Simmons game?"

An I tells im. Then he sez, sez he: "Good, I'll bet the other weigh."

Which suits me fine, since he's wasta bet on MY judgment, I'd hav a restless nite uv it if he shud lose. 'Cause I dont wanna pick no teams for nobody 't bet on emnehow.

Every feller 't his own noshion, an th dogs tak th hind-most, is my idear.

An I dont git soar with nobody dont agree with me, 'cause I did. I'd B soar all th time. They's a bunch in Al Kibers caff this a. m. talkin' anent th football classics, an I jist sits tite an listens wide, an learns 'bet they sint no 2 animals in th caff 't has th same idear.

Enneynow, if all th teams in th countrie wuz B rite all th time, nobody'd ever win a gain, an all th classics ud B ties.

An we dont want no ties. Epecially down 't the new Memorial Stadium emnehow. "Open that there stadium write," "Doleful Doc" Stewart laments, an along comes them Baylor Bears an opens it 2 much. So I sez open it rite agin, an ef th Aggies win, they's jist got th best team, the's all. Enneynow, it ain't no disgrace 'tose 't a better team. Is it?

Enneynow, dont eat 2 much turkey.

Columbia Looks Forward

Columbia had a great year on the gridiron last fall. Columbia hopes to have an even better one of the basketball floor this winter. Most of the stars of last season's team are back. A strong line-up is ascertained as follows: Left end, Blue and White see visions of the collegiate championship. The team is led by Wilson, a young guard of great skill. Laub, forward, and Mannheim, center, are two other formidable.

Owls Ease Off

HOUSTON.—Practice was halted at Rice Institute today and squad will rest until the opening whistle tomorrow. Accompanied by a band, the Baylor Bears and several hundred rooters are expected to arrive in Houston today.

Army Grind Renewed

WEST POINT.—The Army continued its defense with two scrub teams using Navy players alternating as winners and losers with the varsity. The coaches have not yet announced the lineup to face the Middles next Saturday at Baltimore.

Torris Meets Chilean

NEW YORK.—Six Torris, recognized as one of America's greatest lightweights, meets Luis Velezini, South American champion, in a 12-round bout tonight at Madison Square Garden, which will eliminate one of them as a serious contender for Benny Leonard's crown.

TONY BERNARDI TO MEET DUSEK

Tony Bernardi, "The Gas House Wop," will meet Rudy Dusek, flashy wrestler from Little Rock, Ark., in the Elks theatre Monday, December 1.

Arrangements to this effect were concluded here late last night, following the receipt of a telegram from Clarence Eklund, light-heavyweight champion of the world, declaring that it will be impossible for the champion to return here on Monday, and suggesting that Bernardi meet Dusek instead.

Eklund suggested Wop. Eklund indicated in his telegram a belief that "The Wop" has an even chance with Dusek. The champion's message follows:

"Can't meet Dusek on your date. Why not match Bernardi with Dusek there. Are fans here that believe 'The Wop' has an even chance to win over either Jones or Dusek?"

Bernardi, recuperating from a stiff grind on the past Monday night with the champion, and not to be seen on the streets yesterday as a result of the match, was found resting in his room here. "Yes, I will meet Dusek," he said when approached on the subject. Asked whether he could pick up any great amount of weight this week, "The Wop" declared that he could, and that probably by Sunday he would be back to normal again.

It is heavier, as he has cut out the rigid training of the past week, and has started eating heavier meals also.

Dusek will be remembered in Port Arthur as the big class looking boy who downed Mike Thompson in a sensational tilt at the Elks last winter. Thompson, who used a severe wrist lock, came near downing Dusek in the mill with the hold, it will be recalled.

Recently, Dusek and Clarence Eklund met in Dallas, Texas, at catchweights, and Dusek defeated the champion two straight falls in something like 58 minutes.

Dusek is under the management of "Cyborg" Mitchell, well-known southern promoter who lives in Little Rock, and who himself was once a wrestler of note. Return of the big 150-pound boy to Port Arthur gives fans here an opportunity to see Tony working again in his own division, and should furnish plenty of excitement.

John Mahan, "Brick" Muller, and "Hoe" Workman.

Mohanit was the big noise for Knute Rockne at Notre Dame. "Brick" Muller was of valuable assistance to Andy Smith in turning out championship teams at California. Dr. Wilce misses Hoe Workman at Ohio State.

It is a rather unusual fact that these three players, who have won undying fame for their forward passing, should hail from the middle and far west.

Since the season of 1924 has been a most unusual one in every respect, it is but natural that it should give to the game another passing specialist.

Incidentally it is a bit of coincidence that he should hail from the west. His name? Ben Friedman, University of Michigan.

In a sense "Red" Grange, Illinois sensation, should be given much of the credit for having discovered Ben Friedman of Michigan.

After Grange had run wild against Michigan, scored four touchdowns before the close of the first period, Coaches Yost and Little of Michigan were convinced that the Wolverines were in need of heroic treatment at once.

A passing game was decided upon as one of the tonics Michigan needed. Some of the regulars having failed, the job was turned over to Benny Friedman, substitute.

In his first start he literally passed Michigan to a victory over Wisconsin. That one game made him a regular. He is now one of the mainstays of the team.

THE NUT CRACKER

While the knockout of Fred Fulton by "Cyborg" Mitchell, well-known southern promoter who lives in Little Rock, and who himself was once a wrestler of note. Return of the big 150-pound boy to Port Arthur gives fans here an opportunity to see Tony working again in his own division, and should furnish plenty of excitement.

The suggestion that Fulton had to be bribed to lose is the first complaint we ever heard tendered the plasterer.

The difference between Annette Kellerman and Mr. Fulton is that the gentleman doesn't need a tank to dive in.

Appropos of the economic tendencies of the race, O'Grady begs to observe that you never hear of anybody holding a benefit for a Scotchman.

Mickey Walker offered to reduce his guarantee from $3500 to $2500. The matter has been referred to the proper authorities and a lunacy investigation is promised.

Coach Fisher of Harvard is to be canned because he had a record of 100 wins and 100 losses. This is further proof that football is played merely for the beautiful spirit of the sport.

Another social error committed by Red Grange in the Minnesota game was his failure to fly a banner reading, "Use No Hooks."

Having won the featherweight championship of Europe, Mors, guard Mascare, is now qualified to challenge any American preliminary fighter.

If Walter Johnston, in his role of magnate, gives no more passes than he did as a pitcher, the Oakland dead-headers will be all out of luck.

Connie Mack has just signed a 10-second man. This may mean he won't last longer than 10 seconds.

Slow motion pictures have become a necessity. Without them it would never be possible to photograph fellows like Fulton in an upright position.

The fight between Tom Gibbons and Kid Norfolk has been approved. It will prove, among other things, that suspenders are better than straps for keeping trousers at the desired waist height.

A New Star

JACKIE NICHOLS

St. Paul has produced many ring notables, including Mike and Tommy Gibbons, Jack Malone and Fred Fulton. Now the twin city is offering a new star in the person of Jackie Nichols, a French Canadian by birth, who fights at 122 pounds.

Aggie followers will be glad to know that Mule Wilson will be in the backfield alongside of M. Danesby, Bob Berry and Taro Kishi to put forth his powerful line plunging and utilize his good right foot in putting the ball far down the field with a powerful kick. Wilson will bear the brunt of the heavy attack which A. and M. will present. Berry and Kishi doing the wet trick work. M. Danesby, besides his ability to plunge through center, will be used as the passer.

Neely Allison and Charlie Waugh, left end and left tackle respectively, go into the Thanksgiving fray side by side in the last game of their careers. Both are powerful men for the Aggies, both have been thought of over the state as men of all conference caliber.

Alongside of Waugh will be either Hardman or Jim Ferguson, both of the two also playing in their last game for Aggie land. Hardman has been holding the position with ability all season, while Ferguson has been laboring all year with a bad ankle.

Strong Reserve List.

The right side of the Aggie line will perhaps be composed of Norman Danesby at guard, Barlow Irvin at tackle and Red Wilson at end. Danesby's shoulder is well enough healed to permit him to enter the game. "Ox" Dieterich may enter the game at right tackle, however, in place of Irvin and Beutel has been giving

LETTER MEN RETURN

Special to The News.

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 26.—While football is occupying the center of the stage, basketball practice is going on regularly at A. & M. college. Daily 15 men trot out on the basketball floor at Allen academy in Bryan, Texas, to take up the study of rudiments of basketball under the direction of Captain Tubby Washburn and Gene Darby, star forward of the Aggie team last year, who graduated in 1924.

The basketball work of the Aggie squad is being done in Bryan until the new gymnasium of the college is finished. It is thought that practice on the new court can begin within 10 days at the most.

Letter men who are back for the yearly basketball grind are Tubby Washburn, captain and guard; Danesby, guard; Harry Ducker, center; Sid Kyle, center; Mark Wilcox, forward; and Arch Damon, forward. Gus Krueger, a member of the squad last year is also back. John Broad and Bill Montgomery, two products of basketball of 1924 are out for the team and six prominent members of the 1924 fish squad are working out. The fish team members are Baker, McVougharty, Perkins, Tagg, Blount and Tucker.

Aggies Send Strongest Squad To Austin Against Texas U.

By MARVIN STEPHENS.

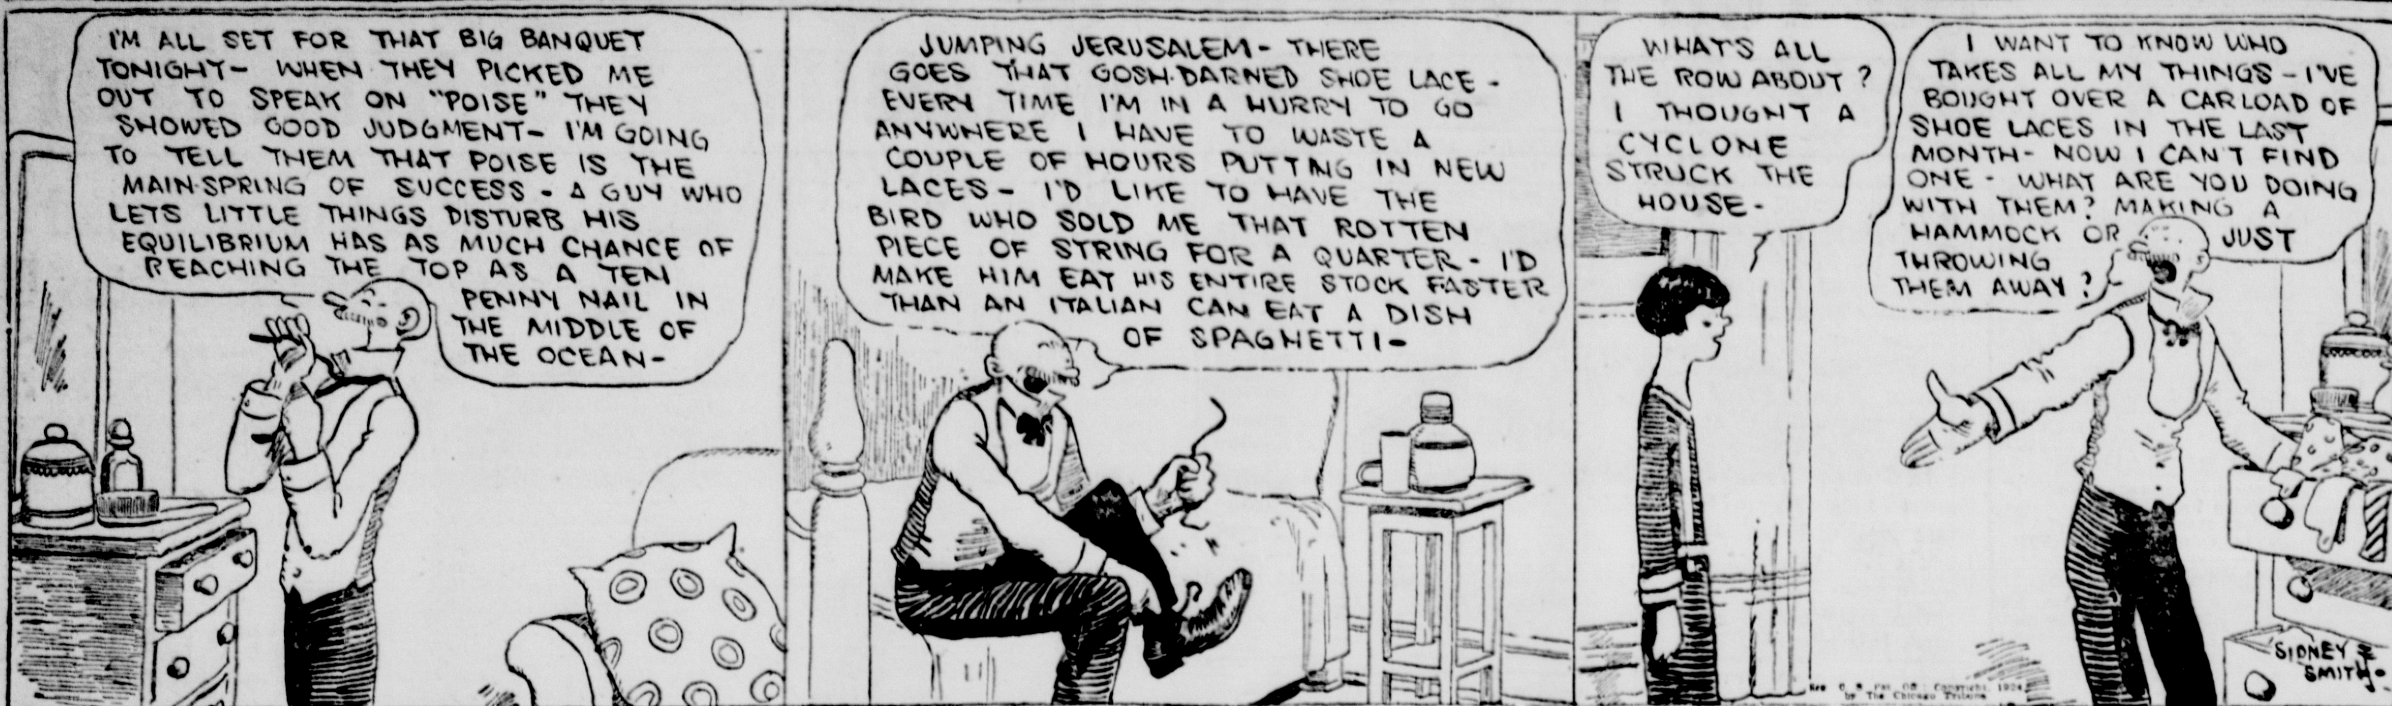

Staff Correspondent, The News.

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 26.—D. X. Bible closed the season's practice with a light workout Tuesday—the last workout on Kyle field this season. This afternoon saw the football players safe in Austin after a student send-off by the cadet corps, which will follow Thursday morning on four special trains.

The last workout produced nothing of a talkative nature. Bible had only a light signal practice. But one thing the final day did show—that D. X. Bible had available every man of the Aggie squad except Louie Miller and Ochscherbeck, a sub guard who has been playing hard football and winning a place for himself. A bad ankle and a bad knee may keep him from entering the fray.

"I should think he would be ashamed of himself," said Old Mother Hubbard.

"A shaggy old fellow is Towsehead, his whiskers make most a remarkable bed, For chickens and turkeys and kittens and such— All their scratches and gobblings don't bother him much.

"He lies in the field, all brown in the grass, Not minding the nibbles of creatures that pass, Of calves or of colts, the greedy young friskers, That never go by without munching his whiskers.

"Towsehead wears a night cap, thick and plain, Farmer Brown says it's really to keep off the rain, But I think he's ashamed of it—Towsehead is; If he looks like a granny, it's no fault of his.

"One day he told Scare Crow and Scare Crow told me, (They talk to each other—they're cousins, you see) One reason he hates so his night cap on top— The children can't slide, Farmer Brown made them stop."

That was the next riddle the Riddle Lady asked the Mother Goose people at Mrs. John's orchard party, when she had finished.

"Who is Towsehead?" she asked.

"Please, ma'am, it's a cornstalk!" asked Little Boy Blue.

"No, it isn't," said the Riddle Lady.

"I know the answer," said Mrs. John. "I've been thinking and thinking. It's a haystack."

"Why, of course," said everybody.

"How easy!"

"It's always easy when you know how," laughed the Riddle Lady.

"No, it isn't," said the Riddle Lady.

SNAKE-CHARMERS AND DANCING GIRLS

The "Snake-Charmer" is always an interesting person at carnivals and circus side-shows. To see the big serpents coil around the neck of a man or woman is enough to hold us spellbound.

The snake-charmers we see, however, are not able to "hold a candle" ing daytime they try to find and kill the snakes; but that is no easy job. Perhaps the best way to get rid of them is to have a snake-charmer come with a flute. He will play a tune and the snakes will come out of their hiding places. The reptiles are then coaxed into baskets, covered up and carried away.

to those who have practiced the art in India during centuries past. Perhaps you know that snakes are a great pest in that country. Some people are so poor that they must sleep on the ground inside small huts. Snakes are likely to come in and bite them while they sleep.

Worst of all is the case where a family knows that there is a "nest" of snakes in the house. Then you can well believe that the people do not get sound sleep at night. During
